

Eat

Better Than Pumpkin Spice – Fall Inspired Lattes In San Diego

By Michelle Stansbury | October 17, 2018 | No Comments

Fall is finally here, which means it's time to transition into those cozy sweaters you've neglected all summer long, and head to San Diego's best spots for a hot, autumnal latte. Pumpkin Spice lattes are overdone – instead check out these inspired fall lattes that will still look great in your 'gram!

Touting three locations in Hillcrest, Liberty Station and Pacific Beach, Fig Tree Café has been a long-time favorite among San Diegans since its first location opened 10 years ago in PB. Indulge your senses with Fig Tree Café's Mexican Mocha, a Latin-inspired creation infused with a kick of cinnamon intermingled with rich mocha and a trace of spice to heat things up.

Spill the Beans is one of the best spots in the Gaslamp District for a steaming cup of coffee, and with a plethora of specialty pick-me-ups to choose from, you're bound to find your fall favorite. Try your hand at their Cinna-Bee, a rich blend of honey, house-made cinnamon simple syrup, espresso and milk.

Breakfast Republic has offered up a slew of specialty lattes paired with the eatery's delicious brunch and quirky décor. If a sweet pick-me-up is in order, look no further than their Salted Caramel Latte, characterized by its dynamic fusion of sweet and salty flavor notes stirred into rich nuttiness of the eatery's top-notch espresso and steamed milk. Get your fill at any of their seven locations in North Park, Liberty Station, Encinitas, East Village, Ocean Beach, Carmel Valley and Pacific Beach!

Experience something truly unique and delectable at Lazy Hippo, a happening brunch spot nestled in San Diego's Gaslamp District. Heat things up and quell your Nutella cravings (we know you have them) with their Nutella Café Con Leche, infused with creamy hazelnut and chocolate flavor notes blended with milk to perfection.

Don't let fall pass you by without trying one of these seasonally-suited lattes!